$19,545 RAISED IN CAMPAIGN FOR RED CROSS

Workers Have $7,514 To Go in Annual Drive; Next Report Wednesday.

Marion county quota	$27,060.00
Previously reported	$16,754.98
Reported last night	$ 2,790.14
Total to date	$19,545.12
To be raised	$ 7,514.88

* * *

With a little more than $7,500 to be raised before Marion county's quota of $27,060 is reached in the National Red Cross campaign, workers will continue the drive into next week, it was decided at a report meeting held last night at campaign headquarters. When the drive was launched March 1, today was set as the deadline goal.

Workers last night reported $2,790.14 bringing the total to date to $19,545.12. The canvass of the residential districts allotted to the women workers, is practically completed, and in virtually all the precincts and wards the subscriptions have gone over the alloted quota. Sickness due to colds and flu, has slowed up the workers in the business and industrial canvass, reports last night showed.

Give At Home Emphasized

There still are contributors who think that the canvass is being carried on as in former years, and that contributions are made by the head of the family where he or she is employed, the workers report. Clarence Shockney, campaign chairman, again emphasizes that this year's slogan is "Give Where You Live," which means that all contributions are to be made at the homes, with the exception of advance gift and business management gifts.

Another meeting will be held Wednesday night at headquarters and Mrs. Shockney urged the workers to have their return calls made and that they give as complete a report as possible at this time. Work in the county is progressing and it is expected that a near-complete report will be made at the next meeting.

Amounts Reported

The following is the report to date by divisions:

Advance gifts, $2,610.84; industries $2,955; business, $3,164.

Residential: Ward one, $930.93; Ward two, $765.98; Ward three, $514.62, Ward four, $1,516.60; Ward five, $1,593.60; Ward six, $3,233.75. Total residential $8,556.48

County — Big Island township, $106.25 Bowling Green, $189.45; Claridon South, $315.75; Grand, $51 LaRue village, $363.20: Marion township, $10; Meeker village, $35 Montgomery township, $210.50 New Bloomington village, $49.15; Pleasant, $184; Richland, $314.50 Salt Rock, $225.50; Scott, $54.50· Tully, $25 Waldo village $75, Waldo township, $50. Total for the county, $2,258.80; quota $4,370.

KNUTSON SPURNS TAX TRIM POSTPONEMENT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 15 — Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), today rejected Democratic demands to hold off tax-cutting until the world situation clarifies, declaring:

"If we don't cut taxes now we'll never cut taxes."

Knutson predicted the house ways and means committee, of which he is chairman, will back him up next week by approving a bill to slash income taxes 20 per cent across the board.

This was his answer to an appeal by Rep. Doughton (D-NC), to go slow because of new "dark clouds hanging over the world."

The North Carolinian, who managed tax legislation as ways and means chairman while Democrats controlled congress, said last night "recent developments" have raised serious doubts that President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget can be reduced. He urged delay "until we know what our foreign commitments and expenditures will be."

Over loud protests by Democrats, the committee late yesterday wound up its two-day hearings on the Knutson bill, which would trim individual income taxes by $3,500,000,000 this year. The Democrats argued that the measure is being "steamrollered" by the Republican majority without public witnesses being allowed to testify.

Knutson said the 25-man committee, with the 15 G.O.P. members in control, will approve the bill substantially its present form, including a provision that the tax reductions be retroactive Jan. 1. Under present plans it will go to the house for a showdown vote on March 24.

Insurance Agents Set For Walkout Monday

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 15—H. W. Watts, a member of the executive board of the Columbus local, United Office and Professional Workers of America (CIO), said today that agents of the Monumental Life Insurance Company in Ohio, Michigan and Missouri would go on strike Monday.

The strike, he explained, would be in protest against refusal of the company's president, L. P. Rock of Baltimore, Md., to meet with the union for contract discussions.

Twenty agents in the local office will strike, Watts reported W. J. Hanley, manager of the Columbus office, said he knew nothing about the reported strike.

MARGARET TRUMAN TO DEBUT TOMORROW

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 15—Margaret Truman is flying to Detroit today to make her radio singing debut with the Detroit symphony orchestra tomorrow night.

The White House reported the President's daughter now is feeling "fine" and has recovered completely from the attack of laryngitis that forced postponement of her planned debut last weekend.

Miss Truman will be accompanied to Detroit by Mrs. Thomas J. Strickler, her voice teacher, and Miss Reathel Odum, Mrs. Truman's secretary.

She will sing semi-classical selections on the American Broadcasting Company's Sunday Evening Hour (8 to 9 p. m., EST). (WMRN and other ABC stations)

Miss Truman arranged to take a plane leaving at 2:15 p. m., arriving at Detroit at 5:51 p. m., EST.

Special arrangements are being made for President Truman to listen to the broadcast in Key West, Fla., where he is resting.

POPE, GANDHI PEACE PRIZE CANDIDATES

By The Associated Press

OSLO, Norway, March 15 — Pope Pius XII and Hindu Leader Mohandas K. Gandhi are among the candidates for the 1947 Nobel peace prize announced by the Nobel Institute here today.

Among other candidates proposed, the institute said, are Herbert H. Lehman, former director general of the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration; Sir John Boyd Orr, director general of the UN food and agricultural organization; President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, and Mme. Alexander Hollontay, former Russian ambassador to Sweden.

One proposal, the announcement disclosed, was to split the prize between Mme. Hollontay and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, United States representative on the UN economic and social council and chairman of the human right commission.

Other individual candidates included Carl Joachim Harbro, Norwegian statesman, and Lionel Curtis, British political writer. International institutions put forward as candidates were the Society of Friends, the Carnegie foundation, the Academy of International Law at The Hague, the Bureau of Peace in Geneva and the Interparliamentary union.

The institute said no decision would be made before next Dec. 10.

ADDITIONAL AID REQUESTS SEEN

Congressmen Predict 5 More Soviet-Threatened Nations Will Apply.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 15 — Key legislators predicted today at least five more countries may ask for aid under the administration's program to curb the spread of Communism among war-weakened nations near the Russian borders.

They said Iran, Syria, Lebanon, Hungary and Palestine are likely to call for help soon either in the form of credit or cash grants

Including $400,000,000 which President Truman has urged congress to provide for Greece and Turkey, and millions more for relief elsewhere in Europe and China, the ultimate cost of the overall policy may be well over $1,000,000,000, the congress members estimated.

They said these are probable developments:

1. Congressional approval—somewhat later than the administration goal of March 31—of Mr. Truman's request for funds to help Greece and Turkey withstand Communistic pressure, plus authority to send them military and civilian missions.

(The house of commons approved yesterday a $76,000,000 supplementary appropriation to wind up British aid in Greece by March 31. Hector McNeil, minister of state, said Britain is "most anxious that the United Nations commission now in Greece make some recommendation of a permanent or semi-permanent kind" for the country's future).

2. Possible inclusion of a clause to make the fund flexible—giving the Chief Executive wide discretion as to whether it should be used for direct grants or loans, and where, when and how it should be spent, subject to a detailed accounting to congress.

3. A move to slow down action on tax cuts until the foreign situation has become clarified. This took shape yesterday when Rep. Doughton (D-NC), ranking minority member of the tax-fixing house ways and means committee, warned of "dark clouds hanging over the world."

4. Insistent demands, particularly from the newly-dominant Republican majority, for a long range blue print of the administration's foreign policy. G.O.P. members want to know not only plans for the southern Mediterranean but elsewhere in the world in such trouble spots as Korea, Manchuria, Poland and Germany.

Deadline for Mailing Tax Returns Tonight

Mailed income tax returns will be accepted as on time if mailed before midnight tonight, internal revenue officials stated as the 5 p. m. deadline for filing fell today. Following instructions from the internal revenue office, the local office will close at 5 o'clock, John Sells, deputy collector in charge of the local office in the Citizens building said. Late returns are subject to a penalty.

There was a fair-sized line-up shortly after the office opened at 8 a. m. today and indications were that it would be a busy day for Mr. Sells and his staff.

In previous years the office has remained open until the midnight deadline, but this year, in keeping with orders from the state department of internal revenue the doors will close at 5 p. m.

AVALANCHE OF SNOW BURIES FRENCH PLANE

Rescue Party Unable To Probe Wreckage; No Trace of Passengers.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, March 15 — Search parties reported today that an avalanche of snow had covered the wreckage of an Air France liner, which crashed into a cliff and exploded yesterday on the treacherous slope of Mt. Moucherolle in the French Alps. There was no trace of the 18 passengers, four of whom were Americans, or of the five crewmen.

Ground parties messaged to the company's Lyon office that fear of starting a new snow slide on the 4,000-foot mountain kept them from digging to examine the wreckage, which they reached after wading through two feet of newly fallen snow.

The condition of the wreckage was difficult to discern from the air because of a heavy snowfall in the Alps last night.

Slides Down Mountain

The plane, a two-engine DC-3, left Nice yesterday for Paris. It crashed into the mountain on its southern slope and then slid back down into a valley, the company spokesman said. The site of the wreck is in the neighborhood of Chateau Bernard, 25 miles south of Grenoble.

The company said the four American passengers were:

Edwin Mantz, a soldier returning to Germany from a vacation.

A Mr. Anfossi of New York City.

Emmanuel Faber, an American recently with UNRRA in Germany.

A Mrs. Muller, also identified as an UNRRA worker.

The company said most of the passengers were French — vacationers returning from the Mediterranean seacoast. A Dutch and a Swedish married couple were among them. The five crew members were Frenchmen.

Hampered by Snow

Gendarmes at Chateau Bernard said peasants found parts of the wreckage this morning in the snow on the mountainside. The party from Grenoble which climbed 3,500 feet was reported to have found bits of the wings and tail. The party, however, was hampered by a two-foot blanket of snow which had fallen during the night.

Formal presentation of the distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal, awarded Russell R. Garver of 1204 East Center street by the U. S. Navy, will be made Tuesday night in a ceremony to be held at the Armory. The presentation will be made by Charles Harmon, acting naval representative, and former lieutenant (j.g.) in the U. S. Navy.

Attending the ceremony will be representatives from the Marion Navy club, Bird-McGinnis and GI posts of the American Legion, AMVETS, Disabled Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other veterans groups.

Mr. Garver, discharged from the Navy in January, 1946, as an aviation machinist's mate, third class, received notice in January he had been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. It will mark the second time he has received the award and he also holds the Air Medal with three stars, stars being awarded in lieu of reawarding the medal.

Mr. Garver entered the Navy in April 1943, receiving training at Pensacola, Fla. and served in the Pacific area 18 months. He makes his home with a sister, Mrs. Robert Johnston of 1204 East Center street and is employed at the Avenue Lumber & Supply Co.

Mr. Garver flew 49 missions from Saipan and Guam against the China coast, Formosa and southern Japan. He saw action covering invasions, in attacks on shipping and in submarine patrol. He also saw action in one of the Navy's first attacks on Japanese-held Shanghai, July 17, 1945, which was reported in an Associated Press report from Guam. Crew members were quoted as saying the trip turned out to be a routine hop with "just a little more nervousness than usual."

CITY FILES ENTRY IN SAFETY CONTEST

Police Chief Enters Record for 1946 Title.

Marion, winner of the National Traffic Safety contest for cities in its population class on two consecutive years, has entered the contest again this year, Police Chief William E. Marks said today.

The contest is sponsored annually by the National Safety Council. Entries for the 1946 contest close today, although Marion submitted its report several days ago, Chief Marks said. Marion will compete with other cities in the nation with populations of from 10,000 to 50,000.

In the 1946 report the city lists four fatal traffic accidents during the year. Personal injury accidents totaled 105 and accidents involving property damage numbered 623. There were 72 arrests made in the city last year on charges of driving while intoxicated and 8,625 parking violations.

Marion was contest winner in its population group in 1943 and 1944.

Mystery of $92,800 Cache May Be Solved

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, March 15—Who put $92,800 in cash in the basement of the home of 44-year-old Benjamin Lieberman, a $75-a-week bookkeeper in a dairy here, may be discovered today, Detective Lieut. Frank May says.

May, after a conference with treasury department and office of price administration agents, said there was "a good chance" of a definite statement on the whole situation."

Also present at the conference was Israel Kodroff, part owner of the Cooklyn Dairy Company, where Lieberman is employed. A secret service agent said a $50 bill from the cache was collected by a driver for the Cooklyn dairy but he declined to amplify.

ROAD STRIKERS GET DEADLINE

Herbert Says "Back at Work by Tuesday" or They'll Be Out.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 15—Striking highway department workers—approximately 300 Division 9 employes—had notice today from Gov. Thomas J. Herbert that unless they returned to their jobs by Tuesday they would be treated as having quit.

The governor stated that the removals which had been made in Division 9 and which members of the AFL Ohio State Employes council termed the strike cause affected only "unnecessary workers and those politically active."

Seek Job Protection

The strikers seek job protection under civil service regulations and have said they would not return to work until assured they would not be discharged for political reasons.

Pickets yesterday flanked highway department garage in Ross, Scioto, Pike, Lawrence, Brown, Adams and Highland counties—all included within the Division 9 geographical limits.

Union members, headed by Executive Secretary Samuel A. Anderson, former Ohio legislator, prepared the groundwork for a meeting tomorrow afternoon to discuss a possible statewide strike of its claimed membership of 1,500 road workers. Yesterday, Anderson announced that he intended to seek withdrawal of federal aid for highway department projects under the Hatch act, which bars "pernicious political activity" by public employes being paid in part or in full from federal funds.

Charge Political Bias

Unionists also asserted Division Engineer Elmer S. Barrett had laid off men on grounds of lack of money only to replace them with others endorsed by county Republican organizations.

ATTENDANT ADMITS AIDING LIMA ESCAPEE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 15—An attendant of the Lima state hospital for the criminal insane, Don E. Young, 24, has confessed that he helped an inmate to escape, the state welfare department announced today.

The inmate, Thomas Gibbs, 37, of Madisonville, sawed a bar in a window Saturday night and fled in his underwear. He returned Wednesday, wearing burlap bags, and had not left the institution grounds.

The welfare department said the attendant confessed he bought a wrench and two hacksaws and turned them over to Gibbs in return for a promise of money. The wrench and saws were found on Gibbs' cot.

The confession, the department added, was given to Clarence Fisher, assistant prosecutor of Allen county. The department credited him for solving the case.

Charges were filed in Lima municipal court against Young at noon today.

Gibbs was admitted to the hospital Jan. 5, 1945, after being charged with burglary and larceny.

The welfare department said he previously had served terms in Ohio penitentiary and the Mansfield reformatory.

The attendant had been employed by the hospital since March 4, 1946.

GOVERNMENT BLAMED FOR GRAIN VARIATION

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 15—A commodity exchange official's charge that "unpredictable government actions" are causing the wide fluctuations in grain futures prices today confronted government officials who blamed speculation and asked that margins be boosted.

The request, sent yesterday to the nation's three major grain exchanges in Chicago, Kansas City, and Minneapolis, brought a quick reply from Walter Scott of Kansas City, president of the National Association of Commodity Exchanges and Allied Trades, Inc.

"The high prices that are ruling today are directly due to government policies and activities that have brought about conditions that the entire grain trade views with concern and alarm," Scott declared in a statement issued by the association's headquarters in New York.

Scott said widespread competition has developed for meager grain supplies because of "the announcement in November of the completion of relief purchases; the

An automobile driven by Paul R. Sycks, of 131 Charles street, was reported struck by a hit-skip driver at East Church and South Vine streets Friday about 7:20 p. m. Sycks told police he was traveling east on East Church street when another car came from Mt. Vernon avenue and sideswiped his automobile, damaging the left side. The other driver failed to stop after the accident, Sycks said.

Parked Car Damaged

The automobile of Harold Lee Prettyman of 379½ South State street, parked at 373 South State street, was damaged Friday about 9:13 p. m. when it was reported struck in the left side by a truck traveling south. Cars were parked on both sides of the street and the truck and another car, traveling north, attempted to pass between two parked cars, according to the police.

An automobile driven by Donald Underwood, of 117 East Church street and a parked car owned by E. G. Jacobs of 499 South Prospect street, were involved in an accident at 499 South Prospect street about 5:50 a. m. today. Cars driven by George Kuba of 411 Blaine avenue and Daniel K. Hentze of 308 Willow street, collided at Blaine avenue and Columbia street about 1:03 a. m. today, according to police reports. Kuba was traveling south and Hentze was going north on Blaine avenue when the accident occurred. The left front of Kuba's car and the right front of Hentze's car were damaged.

An accident at 7:28 p. m. Friday on South State street near the Marion Hotel involved cars driven by E. E. Koehler and Harvey P. Lust Jr., both of near Marion. Both were traveling east on West Center street when slippery streets caused the Newland car to skid into the cab, police said. The rear door and rear fender of the cab and the front fender of the car were damaged.

A car driven by John Cherrington, 20, of Cardington, rammed the rear of a truck trailer driven by Edward Shaw, 36, of Columbus on route 61, south of Mt. Gilead this morning the state patrol reported. The front end of the car was badly damaged but there were no injuries.

SOVIET CLAIMS SNARL PARLEY

Deputies Stymied as Marshall Calls Gen. Clay as U. S. Advisor.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 15 — Russia and the western powers were deadlocked today in the deputy foreign ministers' conference on the issue of Soviet claims to German assets and Albanian participation in the framing of the German peace treaty.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Marshall summoned the American military governor of Germany to come to Moscow at once as a chief advisor to the American delegation at the council of foreign ministers sessions.

Some western diplomats speculated that Molotov might spring a surprise proposal on German economic issues when the subject comes before the council early next week.

Chinese Issue Boils Again

The situation brought about by Molotov's efforts to arrange talks on the Chinese crisis boiled again. The Chinese embassy formally notified Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin "the Chinese government cannot take in or agree to" Molotov's suggested meeting on the problem. This evidently ruled out finally any formal talks on China to which Marshall has insisted he would not agree without Chinese participation.

On the issue of Albania, the ministers' deputies previously had agreed to turn the matter over to their principals immediately. Soviet Deputy Andrei Y. Vishinsky insisted that Albania, with which Britain and the United States are at odds, must be included in any group of small powers invited to form a consultative panel on German treaty making.

"Embarrassment and Shame"

Britain and the United States objected. U. S. Deputy Robert Murphy indignantly told the deputies he viewed "with embarrassment and shame" the fact that the deputies had spent so long a time on the issue of participation by the smaller Allies and still were without agreement.

Even that much agreement—turning the matter over to the council—was blocked by the Soviet Union in the matter of German assets in Austria. The Soviet Union insisted that each deputy be permitted to report only to his own principal, independently of the others.

Russia's Feodor T. Gousev blocked a British-French proposal that the deputies define what constituted German assets in Austria. Gousev said the Soviet Union would make its own definition where the eastern zone was concerned, and Gen. Mark W. Clark, U. S. deputy, for the Austrian treaty, agreed this was proper under the Potsdam agreement.

Blocks French Proposal

The Russian then blocked a French proposal to draft an Austrian treaty clause requiring Austria to recognize the validity of the Potsdam agreement and facilitate "legal transfer of title to German assets. On this point Gousev said that unless the western powers recognize that German assets already acquired by the Soviet Union had been transferred legally, no progress was possible on the whole key issue.

Chinese Formally Reject Part In Big 4 Meeting

By The Associated Press

M. Molotov. This was announced as the sixth session of the foreign ministers council began at 4 p. m. 8 a. m., EST).

The Chinese embassy issued the following statement:

Our Pride and Joy
is your good will — six months ago this week we opened the Nic-Nac. Ever since we opened, your generous patronage has actually overwhelmed us!

For example, we were thinking yesterday maybe it would be interesting to let people know what we actually used. Here is a partial list:

Over 5½ ton Ground Beef. Over 100,000 Buns for Beefburgers. Over 5 ton choice Idahos for French Fries. Over 9,000 gallon pasteurized Milk in our Rich, Jumbo Shakes. Over 100,000 cups Nic-Nac Coffee: Over 18,000 cuts of Our Own Pie, baked fresh daily in our kitchen.

We believe, and you have confirmed this belief, that Marion was ready to accept a modern up-to-the-minute Drive-In Sandwich Shop — close to everything — and yet with adequate parking room. We have established a reputation for Good Food—and we shall spare no effort in our determination to keep it. We feel sure that the policies that earned it will preserve it, therefore:—

For tasty food served in clean modern facilities—morning, noon or night—make your slogan:

Busy Hands Keep Galion Woman's Mind Free From Worry: She Will Be 100 March 21

Special to The Star

GALION, March 15 — "I kind [illegible] worry off....I tatted, and [illegible] tatted, and always [illegible] something like that on my [illegible]," philosophizes Mrs. Euphemia Longstreth, Galion's oldest resident who will be one hundred years old Friday, March 21.

In view of her approaching birthday she was interviewed this week, and one of her first sentences in a remarkable conversation for one of her years she said: "By Jingoes, do you know I'm nearly a hundred.... and my 'baby' boy, Earl, wants to get here from California, and I'm looking for my sister, Mrs. E. M. Swingle of Glen Ferris, W. Va., any day, now."

"I don't want any fuss about my birthday; why can't I have a peaceable birthday. I don't want much in the paper, that's what worries me," she said. She did remember that an article had appeared in the newspapers when she observed her ninety-ninth birthday last March. However, there's a sly twinkle in her eye as she realizes she is approaching this important day.

MRS. EUPHEMIA LONGSTRETH

Sight Is Failing

Her sight has failed her considerably in the last year, and she is slightly hard of hearing. Two serious heart attacks in the past year have given her family considerable concern. But for all of this, Mrs. Longstreth still has a keen mentality and is able to carry on an interesting conversation. Unlike most people of her age, and even younger, she recalls recent events as well as those of the past.

"I always was a great reader, and I carried on quite a correspondence until the last few months, but now I have difficulty passing time," she declared when she explained that she no longer has the sight of one eye, and that the other eye is affected.

"I've lived here 73 years on this same spot—came here as a bride," the venerable woman said when she was asked about the many changes she has witnessed on Galion's main street. She lives in an apartment in the first block west of the public square in downtown Galion. Her husband, Thomas, died in April, 1921, and in 1923 Mrs. Longstreth built the present business block where she lives. The block houses the Longstreth monument works which was operated by her husband and is now managed by her son, Homer, who with his wife live in the adjoining upstairs apartment.

Saw First Paving

Mrs. Longstreth saw Galion's main street macademized about 50 years ago from a dirt road, and she later saw it paved. Gradually the old buildings of the street have been replaced with modern constructions, and modern street lighting and neon signs are among other changes made during the century.

"I can't see it, but my neighbor, Lois Chybo, tells me the old buildings across the street are now being torn down," Mrs. Longstreth commented about the 95-year-old brick building and adjoining frame one which are being razed and will be replaced with a modern theater building.

Mrs. Longstreth enjoys having visitors, and named her neighbors who come in to see her. "My preacher comes every Monday night," she said. Her pastor is Rev. Herbert S. Garnes, Jr., of First Lutheran church, one of the oldest churches of the city.

Receiving her guests alone, Mrs. Longstreth is unguided in her conversation. She recalls the activities of her children and grandchildren.....that her granddaughter in California served in the Navy during the war, that her son has sold his drug store in California during the, past year and that her grandson in Galion, Murral Longstreth, is helping to plan an observance of her birthday.

Memory Goes Back

"I sit here in my old age, all alone, thinking and thinking and thinking.....of my school days, my early married life when my husband was living and my children were young; and I get homesick to see my husband's people." This was her own explanation of how she spends her time. She proudly turned on her floor lamp, and then turned the pages of her Bible to find a picture of her husband.

Born on a farm near Zanesville, March 21, 1847, Euphemia Swingle, she was married to Thomas Longstreth on Jan. 5, 1873, at Deavertown, O. Since that time she has lived in Galion.

Her two sons are Homer of Galion, and Earl of Turlock, Calif., whom she is looking forward to seeing near her birthday anniversary. She has four grandchildren and three great grandchildren. Two sons died in infancy.

Mrs. Longstreth traveled considerably during her life. She made two trips to California, the last one in 1929. In 1933 she was in Texas, and in 1937 her family took her to West Virginia. She has been in 23 different states and Canada.

By her reading, Mrs. Longstreth is self-educated, having only attended country school in Muskingum county.

Until her recent impairment of eyesight, Mrs. Longstreth always kept her hands busy. She always had a cheerful outlook on life which probably accounts for her longevity and her unusually keen mind. However, long life is characteristic of her family. Her mother was about 86 when she died, and her sister, whom Mrs Longstreth is expecting to visit her from West Virginia, is 89 years old; while an aunt lived to be 90.

Realizing and appreciating that her welfare is in the hands of her family, Mrs. Longstreth said, "My daughter-in-law is an angel of mercy. She takes care of me, then looks after her own mother who lives on East Walnut street, and runs her own home besides."

Clothing Sent To Yugoslavia Brings Letter of Thanks

Mrs. Samuel McWherter of Morral, who, during the first part of the war in 1941, made clothing for the American Red Cross at the Morral Red Cross sewing rooms, received a letter Tuesday, March 11, from a Yugoslavian woman, Mrs. Antonia Zagar. She had received a woolen dress which Mrs. McWherter made and in which she put a short note with her name and address.

In the letter, which apparently had been written by someone with a knowledge of the English language, Mrs. Zagar explained that she is widowed with an 18-year-old son. She expressed her gratefulness for the dress and sent good wishes and prayers for Mrs. McWherter, who had two sons serving in the European theater during the war, and also one in the navy. Mrs. Zagar made a request for any old clothing available for herself and her son. On the last page of the letter, a few lines were written by Mrs. Zagar in her native tongue.

Mrs. McWherter is planning to send some clothing to Mrs. Zagar in the near future in answer to her request.

FRANK BROS.

1947 BUICK
Hang on to your Hearts, Folks — it's easy to lose them to this one

Sure as sunrise, it's going to happen:

Someday you're going to slip into a sleek-lined Buick Convertible "just to see what it feels like."

You'll want to find out for yourself if it's as wonderful as it seems to ride in all this stunning style — to be boss of the year's brightest highway beauty.

Well, you find a wheel that seems molded to your hand, deep, wide seats that might have been fashioned for your own special comfort.

You'll look out over a broad bonnet, front-tipped with a richly gleaming grille, and know how a king feels sitting on his throne.

Just listen as eight big Fireball cylinders erupt into life — then settle to a sweet contented purr.

Watch — as each threatening road-jar meekly subsides under the gentle magic of soft coil springs on all four wheels.

Get the feel of roadweight that's like a steadying hand guarding every mile. Try the handy push-button controls that operate the top, the door windows, even the front-seat adjustment.

Test the lightness of the wheel, the quick bite of brakes, the instant upsurge when you touch off the gas treadle.

By now, you find yourself succumbing completely.

This, you tell yourself, is meant for me. How do I make it permanent?

The first step is to see us—and get your name down.

After that — the busy beavers of Buick's on-the-ball production staff will move heaven and earth to join you and your one-and-only the first possible moment.

BRIDGEHEAD RETREAT ALL NEWS TO GENERAL

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, March 15—Maj. Gen. William M. Hoge says he did not know of any retreat touched off by backfiring of a German truck after American forces established the first bridgehead across the Rhine river two years ago.

General Hoge commanded the 9th Armored division which participated in the bridgehead action.

In his March 7 column, Hal Boyle, Associated Press writer and war correspondent, quoted an unidentified officer of the 27th Infantry battalion, a unit of the 9th armored which seized the Ludendorff bridge at Remagen, as saying backfires of the truck startled U. S. forces into a retreat which left only two Americans on the eastern side of the bridge the night of March 7, 1945.

American forces did not recross the bridge until about dawn the next morning, according to the officer quoted by Boyle.

Here for a speaking engagement yesterday, General Hoge said he had heard nothing of the purported truck-backfiring incident. He said a withdrawal took place at Remagen that night but he thought at least one company of 125 or 135 men, perhaps reinforced by remnants of other companies, had remained on the enemy side of the river.

"We first crossed (the bridge) at 4 p. m. The bridge was torn up and was open only to foot traffic until about 9 p. m. I had received orders transferring me to Coblenz and went back to my headquarters six or seven miles from the bridge to obtain new orders. The retreat occurred after dark at 8 or 9 p. m.

"Returning to the bridgehead, I got hold of the battalion commander and sent him back across with his troops. It was a matter of minutes, rather than hours, that the single company was left alone on the far bank."

DAILY LENTEN MEDITATIONS

IN THE CHRIST OF THE CROSS WE GLORY

Today's Text: "From that time Jesus began to show His disciples that He must go to Jerusalem and suffer many things." Matthew 16:21 R.S.V. (Read verses 22, 23).

WHEN Jesus began to show His disciples the shameful and inglorious side of discipleship they tried to tell Jesus it was not necessary and wrong. Jesus was not slow in silencing their spokesman. The name Jerusalem means peace but it was far from peaceful that Passover and First Holy Week. The world is ill-at-ease when the God of Judgment is here.

The problem of our day is man. Man is too concerned about his own ambition and interest to allow the high principles of God to hold sway in his life. We live for self-realization, for what we think and do. On the subject of sacrifice, we would say with Peter be it far removed from our thinking; but Christ thinks differently. If we are to glory in the Christ of the Cross we too must deny ourselves. He came not to do His own will. Jesus was able and willing to innocently bear a cross for others; so must we if we would share His eternal glory.

EMPLOYMENT REPORT MADE

Small Rise Listed Here Despite Shortage of Materials.

Although Marion firms still are having difficulty obtaining materials, 36 surveyed establishments reported employment gains of approximately 100 from November to January, according to records in the Marion office of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation - Ohio State Employment Service.

These 36 establishments continued to show a decrease in female employes and an increase in male workers, according to Fred B. Scherff, manager of the local employment office.

Comparative Figures

On July 15, 1946, the total employment of the 36 industries was 7,353, compared to 8,104 on Jan. 15, 1947. Female employment last July was 1,551. By Nov. 15 of last year it had risen to 1,822 and on Jan. 15, 1947 it had dropped to 1,799. Male employment showed a steady gain from 5,802 last July to 6,305 on Jan. 15. Employment of veterans climbed from 1,588 to 2,079 during the same period. During the last six months the 36 firms showed an employment gain of 10.2 per cent.

Mr. Scherff further advised that during the next four months, according to the anticipations of the 36 industries, hiring activity will be light. This is due to the slow receipt of material, he said. Employers are not planning on needing many additional workers during the four-month period unless the material situation is eased. While 13 of the firms expect no change in employment, the rest anticipate overall gains of 296, (73 women) by May. Some reductions are expected in retail trade and goverment, however.

In regard to turnover in Marion industries, Mr. Scherff said according to reports submitted by Marion employers separations increased from October to December and hires decreased during the same period. The turnover rates for the 36 employers in Marion county who submit regular reports to the Marion office follow: Separations for each 100 workers: June 5.3; August, 5.6; October, 5.3; December, 5.98. Hires for each 100 workers: June 6.3; August, 6.5; October, 7.8; December, 5.6.

Expanding employment is indicated in August and October, followed by a decline in December. The December turnover rates in Marion were higher than comparable statewide rates for some 2,300 firms, which reported 5.5 separations and 4.8 hires for each 100 workers, Mr. Scherff pointed out.

Regarding claims for unemployment compensation, Mr. Scherff advised approximately 320 persons were drawing benefits. In February, 1946, there were three times as many persons drawing benefits as were drawing in February, 1947.

VOTE DISCONTINUANCE OF OHIO'S FARM POND PLAN

No Longer Considered State Responsibility.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 15 — Discontinuance of Ohio's farm pond program, a project begun in 1942 as a "pioneering experiment" for aiding wildlife propagation was announced as one of the actions voted during a conference of the state conservation and natural resources commission.

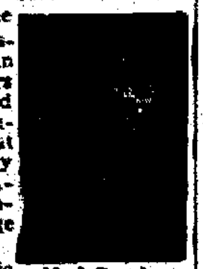
Commission Chairman Emory Beetham of Cleveland said yesterday that the farm-pond program, a demonstration that water and other habitat facilities would benefit wildlife, was not considered a state responsibility since the federal AAA and soil conservation service had initiated widespread projects in the field.

In other actions, the commission approved expenditure of $40,000 of fishing license funds to purchase the 200-acre Marshall tract near Port Clinton for a proposed public recreational park; designated the name "Madison Lake" as official title for a new lake on Deer creek in Madison county, and agreed to a plan to join Ohio State university and the state education department in conducting the Ohio conservation laboratory at Camp Muskingum (Carroll county) between June 16 and July 23.

Oil May Replace Sponge in Nassau Economy

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer.

NASSAU, BAHAMAS, March 15—Black gold—oil pumped from beneath the Atlantic floor—may yield more wealth than the million-dollar harvests once taken from sea beds by vanishing Bahamian sponge fleets.



Hal Boyle

In the shallow waters of the great Bahama bank—known to natives as "the mud"—six thousand fishermen in 600 schooners and sloops used to hunt valuable sponges that for a century made this British colony a center for the sponge trade.

An epidemic fungus disease destroyed most of the sponge beds in 1939, however, and all but wiped out the islands' chief industry.

Now seven major oil companies, including a local subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, are exploring the sea bottom in search of oil-bearing formations. All are operating under concessions from the Bahamian government.

Study Rock Formations.

By use of radar and gravity meters aboard small vessels the companies are studying underlying rock formations, and wells will be drilled if reports are favorable.

The islands lie on the edge of the continental shelf, largely surrounded by water no more than twenty feet deep, which plunges abruptly in places to depths of three miles or more.

Discovery of oil would come as a welcome boom to thousands of natives left idle by the destruction of the sponge beds, which even before the appearance of the fungus disease had been alarmingly depleted by over harvesting.

The industry was begun in 1841 by Gustave Renouard, a shipwrecked Frenchman who began exporting sponges to Paris. Soon thousands of natives were at work hunting the sponges, which they sighted through glass bottomed tubs and hooked dexterously with 40 foot poles. Sometimes the small bobbing sloops remained at sea for weeks.

Sponge Wharf Attraction.

The sponges grow in masses on the ocean floor and have to be dried for a period of weeks and cleaned of animal matter before being trimmed and shipped. For decades this work was done on the sponge wharf at Nassau, a main attraction for tourists.

"We used to get sponges here by the tens of thousands, and now you can't even fill a sack," said H. A. McKinney, who believes the only hope of reviving the industry is to close the sponge beds until they have an opportunity to rejuvenate themselves.

"Some native fishermen have the idea the sponge beds grow up again overnight like mushrooms," he said. "But the sponge is an animal, not a vegetable, and takes from five to ten years to reach a commercial size."

Owner himself of a large bed of cultivated sponges, McKinney recalled the devastating swiftness with which the underwater fungus struck.

50,000 Die in Night.

"Three days after the disease hit one cultivated bed 50,000 sponges died in a single night."

The government, which closed the beds after the 1939 epidemic, reopened them on a limited scale this year.

But only about $44,000 worth were gathered," said McKinney, pointing out that formerly the yearly take had exceeded a million dollars. He sees no possibility of the industry recouping unless the natural beds are closed another ten years and the government halts widespread poaching in cultivated beds.

"One owner was out for three weeks with four boats in 'the mud' and came back with only eight miserable sponges," he said.

"Sponging in the old days provided a cash crop distributed all over the islands. That is what the natives needed to buy the clothes, food and tools.

"That is what they need now—a stable crop."

Idle natives, their sponge fleets now dispersed, hope white explorers will find a new bonanza beneath the ravished sponge beds—oil.

New Lease on Life

THE bitter comment is being made that President Truman killed the United Nations by disregarding it as the means of settling the fate of Greece and Turkey.

Quite the contrary, Mr. Truman may have given the United Nations a new lease on life by recognizing the irreconcilability which has been growing up between the United States and the Soviet Union over the latter's international program of revolution to overthrow existing governments. There can be no United Nations while one of its strongest members is irreconcilably opposed to the existence of its other members.

The Kremlin must decide whether the game is worth the candle. The United States has decided it is. Either the Russian government will abide by the spirit of the United Nations, or it will be in a ding-dong contest with the United States. Those who think Mr Truman should have referred the whole question to the United Nations ignore the fact the unity of the United Nations is still pending

The High Cost of People

GOVERNOR HERBERT, submitting what looks like a fair job of budget "guesstimating" to the Ohio assembly, bears down hard on a neglected fact about the high cost of government.

It isn't government that comes high, but popular demands for more and more public spending. Governor Herbert's recommendations add up to $455,000,000, and of that huge amount less than 13 per cent, or about $5,900,000, is for government The rest is for welfare and education.

This is what political scientists are talking about when they speak of the welfare state. It is a state in which the people's welfare becomes increasingly the responsibility of government. It is what taxpayers mean when they complain that heavy taxation is crushing them.

But taxpayers rarely say what they mean in this respect. They rant and rave about government, or perhaps the party in power, when they should be ranting and raving about the people who itch to unload every conceivable kind of responsibility on government—from the care and feeding of infants to the proper preparation of the dead for burial.

Government in Ohio and in the United States, as far as that's concerned, is dirt-cheap. But people are more expensive...well, more expense than anybody.

No Copyright on Color

THE Ohio Senate's commerce and labor committee is considering a bill to permit the sale of colored margarine, a proposal which dairymen have opposed for years.

Time alters all things, however, and among those who testified before the committee was a dairyman who also raises soybeans. "Ohio is one of the largest soybean producers in the country," he told the committee, "and we are penalizing our farmers who have a bigger stake in soybeans than they do in butter." The soybean crop in Ohio now has a greater monetary value than annual butter production, although, of course, soybean oil goes into many things besides oleo.

With margarine at 42 cents a pound and butter at approximately twice that, and with the butter supply still far from adequate, the sale of ready-colored oleo, properly and plainly labeled, would be taking no unfair advantage of the dairy interests. After all, there are seasons when butter is of such a pale shade that color must be added. Butter has first claim to yellow, but when there isn't enough butter to go around it hardly seems fair to copyright a color.

Only the Beginning

THE income-tax deadline was an ironic time to confront Americans with a proposal for an unlimited campaign of dollar diplomacy against Russia in the Balkans. This is the time of the year when the thoughts of Taxpayer Americanus turn fondly to the possibility of a reduction in the near future. He doesn't honestly believe there can be any real reduction, but he gets to dreaming about the good old days when income taxes were low and a provider had something left over if he cut corners.

Taxpayer Americanus has been jolted out of his reverie about what might be meant by President Truman's blunt explanation of what is. Russian influence threatens to keep on spreading in direct ratio to the poverty and despair of countries whose feeble economies were wrecked by World War II. Mr. Truman therefore believes the United States must rush to the rescue with money—lots of money. This is a proposal that interests many persons for many reasons.

It also interests American taxpayers. The answer to their question, "How long, oh Lord, how long?" is available. A long time, brother. This is only the beginning.

Mythology of Reparations

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Some Reasons Why Germany Can't Pay.

(This is the second of three articles on the mythology of reparations.)

* * *

THIS week a significant document, "The Future of German Reparations," was released. The author is David Ginsburg, whose study of the problem of reparations has been almost continuous since V-E Day. His report is voluminous but lucid, and his suggestions are constructive. I am heavily dependent on Mr. Ginsburg's fact, although my conclusions differ somewhat from his.

The idea that any real reparations can be exacted from Germany is a delusion of politicians, especially of Soviet politicians. If this could be generally recognized, the way to peace might be made vastly smoother.

In the first place, the plan, constantly urged by Russia, of exacting reparations in industrial equipment, is self-defeating and futile. The shift in emphasis by Molotov in his speech last July was a confession of failure It is now well known that the Soviets found less movable equipment in the eastern zone than was expected. The cost of moving it was extremely high. The means of transporting it were wholly inadequate. Germany sabotaged the whole proceeding by removing vital parts, by destroying engineering plans and by causing delays at every stage What finally arrived in Russia was practically useless

Deliveries Impossible.

The same would be true in dismantling equipment and plants in the western zones, as contemplated in the Potsdam agreement. But even that effort is now out of the question because the Soviets have found it impossible to deliver the food and raw materials to the western zones, as promised in the agreement. So the Potsdam plan, with respect to reparations in equipment, is still-born.

With reparations in the form of plants and equipment out of the question, the Soviets are turning to the idea of reparations from current production. This has yielded practically nothing in the eastern zone, because the Soviets killed the goose that laid the eggs. Dismantled plants produce no goods.

The Soviet desire to take current production from the Ruhr and other parts of western Germany is also doomed to frustration. In the first place, all the plans made to get Germany on a self-sustaining basis excluded reparations from current production. Secretary Byrnes made that clear last September.

And the economic facts preclude any future plans for reparations from current production Those facts are simply that three indispensable priorities must be ahead of such reparations. First, there are charges for occupation costs; second, there is the necessity of providing the essentials of life to Germans; and, third, there is the necessity for imports to provide materials for production. In prewar times, imported materials amounted to a great percentage of production costs And now Mr. Hoover points out that to pay for food alone, current production must be mortgaged heavily for years to come Possible 10-Year Task.

The length of time during which we shall have to pay for food for Germany has been variously estimated The most reliable judge, I believe, is Dr. Julius Hirsch. His predictions two years ago, of what food would be needed have been almost exactly borne out. His view now is that it will take nearly six years more for Germany to produce 85 per cent of the food she needs. We will probably be furnishing food for seven and perhaps ten years. This means the accumulation of a huge debt to us, which should be a prior charge on German production.

Reparations could be paid, of course, if the United States were to advance the cost of food and raw materials Perhaps that is what the Soviets have in mind But it is hardly likely that, despite our generosity, we would be willing to do that. Our policy should be to assist only in German recovery, and not for a margin of reparations beyond that recovery.

The position of the Soviets in demanding reparations from current production suggests Aesop's fable of the crow and the pitcher. The Soviet bird wants the water in the pitcher but cannot reach it. The stones to be dropped in to bring the level higher, however, will not be provided by the thirsty bird. In this case, they would have to be provided by the United States. That the United States is not prepared to do. And that is the impasse to be faced at Moscow.

Just a Minute

By JACK TARVER

Pay to the Infernal Revenue Collector

This is it—I-T Day

This is the day one annually remembers the soothsayer's warning, "Beware of the Ides of March"

This is the day the procrastinating public at last comes to grips with the facts of 1040, the day one is behooved to count, not his blessings, but his deductions, the day bachelors who normally bask in their unincumbered status feel a genuine longing for the patter of little exemptions.

The shooting is over, but the surtax lingers on.

That long-promised 20 per cent reduction being yet a gleam in Bob Taft's eye, this is the day when again is emphasized the fact that a boy's best friend is his dependent mother.

Comes now the time when annually one realizes that pay-as-you-go, like painless dentistry, is a snare and a delusion

For, of all sad words of tongue or of pen, the saddest are not "It might have been" — but "BALANCE DUE AFTER DEDUCTIONS". Who said this was a free country?

Something Happened

DON'T look now, but 1947 was the year the United States was supposed to be debt-free, according to congressional intent after World War I

The War Debt Funding Act of 1922 (June 15) showed that the existing national debt of 18½ billion would be liquidated by June 30, 1947. Instead, the debt on that date will reach 260½ billion dollars, if the presidential budget estimates are correct.

Something happened; namely, the moratorium on payments of debts of World War I, the depression of the 30's, lend-lease and the huge new indebtedness of World War II.

To pay off the present public debt in 25 years, with interest and other complications, would require about 14 billion dollars a year, more than half the over-all amount requested for the operation of the whole government in the next fiscal year. The aim of congress traditionally has been to liquidate war debts in a quarter of a century after the conclusion of peace. After each of three previous great wars, the United States has followed a rigorous policy of amortization, thereby clearing the slate for the next period of deficit financing

The 1922 debt legislation called for repayment of all sums advanced to foreign governments, to correspond with repayment of Liberty loans Mathematicians figured that the whole public debt would be retired by the middle of 1947. Thereafter, the United States was to receive some 15 billion dollars in continuing payments from foreign governments over a period of 40 years. In 1922, optimism was the rule in Washington.

Gum Helps Tame Headhunters

NEW YORK—Each time Americans unwrap a fresh stick of chewing gum they help bring civilization to one of the few remaining head-hunting races in the world—the Dayaks of Boreno, says the Netherlands News Service.

The more gum is chewed in the United States, the better the prospects are that these Dayaks will relinquish their erstwhile pastime of cutting off heads and devote themselves to the less romantic but more peaceful occupation of gum growing, the news agency declares.

The trees from which the jelutung latex is tapped grow in small groups in the swampy primitive forests of the South-Boreno river basin The principal tappers are Dayaks and Banjarese, with Malayans and Chinese acting as buyers and exporters.

The cultivation of Dayak jelutung, which is coagulated with phosphoric acid into an elastic rubber, dates from only a few years before the war At first its quality was unsatisfactory for American tastes because of the primitive method of tapping and the haphazard way of collecting and storing Improvments came gradually after the forestry department of the Nethedlands Indies government opened local consulting offices and organized the collecting system. At the same time, an American firm sent to South Boreno one of their experts, who for two years lived among the Dayaks and helped them to improve their product.

At the time of the Japanese invasion, both quality and shipping methods had improved to such a degree that annual export of jelutung from the South-Borneo area totalled some ten million pounds. It is hoped that during 1947 production will reach eight million pounds.

Policy On Greece Too General

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE president's message falls into two parts which may be considered separately. The first part is the argument for assistance to Greece and Turkey in the form of money, supplies, equipment, and of civilian and military personnel. The second part is a statement of "the broad implications involved" is the assistance is extended

It is this second part which requires the most careful examination and thorough debate. For it is, as the lawyers would say, an obiter dictum, that is to say "an expression of opinion," not forming an essential part of the reasons determining the decision

Thus there are sufficient practical, humanitarian, and strategic reasons why the United States should intervene in the Middle East to prevent, as the president put it, "changes in the status quo in violation of the Charter of the United Nations by such methods as coercion, or by such subterfuges as political infiltration"

But since the reasons are sufficient why Congress should vote the authority to intervene in the Middle East, it does not necessarily follow that it should endorse the idea that our interventions are henceforth to become general and global.

Vague Implications

In respect to this second part which contains "the broad implications," we shall do well to follow the advice which Alexander Pope gave to the poets, that they should compose with fury but should correct with phlegm.

The implications are stated so vaguely, so broadly, so rhetorically that no workable policy can be deduced from them. They can mean everything, anything, or very little, and words of that sort, when pronounced by the head of a state in a time of intense crisis and of passionate confusion, are imprudent. The pronouncements of a powerful government should be defined and precise lest they be taken as threatening more than it intends and as promising more than it can deliver

Experience should have taught us by this time that there are good reasons why a seasoned diplomacy is very chary indeed of the grand pronouncements of policy

"Today they are ringing the bells, tomorrow they will be wringing their hands"

The practice of understatement, which we perhaps think of as peculiarly British, is in fact characteristic of experienced and responsible diplomacy everywhere. The big hot generalities, which we have loved so well when the primary responsibility in the world was not ours, are no longer for us. They are an indulgence which a great state must learn to eschew. For, they usually mean, as Elihu Root, I believe it was, once said, that first you shake your fist, and then you shake your finger.

Tendency Illustrated

The President's own statement illustrates this very tendency "It must be the policy of the United States to support free peoples who are resisting attempted subjugation by armed minorities or by outside pressures * * * But "I believe our help should be primarily through economic and financial aid * * *"

Instead of such a large promise followed by a lame anticlimax, it would be better, much less dangerous, and far more effective to announce, not a global policy, but an American Middle Eastern policy.

Instead of not naming the Soviet Union, it would be better to address the Soviet Union directly, and to say that in view of the pressure on Greece and Turkey, we are reinforcing them, that our object is to stop the invasion of Greece by bands armed and trained in Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania; to make sure that the settlement between the Soviet Union and Turkey is negotiated and is not imposed by force, that behind the protection of this temporary special guaranty, we are contributing economic and financial assistance in order to revive and strengthen the national life of these two countries.

The advantage of adopting a precise Middle Eastern policy is that it can be controlled for the purpose of maintaining order A vague global policy, which sounds like the tocsin of an ideological crusade, has no limits. It cannot be controlled. Its effects cannot be predicted.

Everyone everywhere will read into it his own fears and hopes, and it could readily act as incitement and inducement to civil strife in countries where the national cooperation of parties is delicate and precarious

Polish Production Moves Upward

By The Associated Press

WARSAW, Poland — The Communist-backed newspaper Glos Ludu says figures now available show that Poland's industries in some divisions in 1946 exceeded the production estimated for the year.

The journal said the coal output had been set at 46,000,000 tons but 46,800,000 tons had already been mined by Dec 12 The target for pig-iron was 691,000 tons with 726,000 produced, rolled goods, 800,000 tons and 810,000 produced.

Mistaken Identity

By TRUMAN TWILL

Two lady readers (this column is read by me… too) have said they are confused about T Manville the tomcat and T. Twill the author

One of the ladies called up to discuss th… matter over the telephone. The other one pu… it in writing "I always get you and the tomca… mixed up," she said. "Are you the cat or is th… cat you, or are you both one, or are you separate" It's quite confusing, though I suppose … could tell you apart if I saw you side by side"

The tomcat would be the one that walked o… all fours. But seriously, the Tomcat's Diary, which is what T. Manville's recent literary efforts have been called, probably is confusing. It's easy to understand, for instance, how a reader might get confused when the tomcat complained about arthritis in his tail, as he d… recently

Or when T Manville explained about th… usefulness of cats, why cats curl their tails abou… their feet when resting, and how silly it is to assume that because some cats like fish all cat… like fish. A person might easily make the mistake of thinking a human being would know stuff like that.

Great balls of fur, ladies, what do you expect" Whatever put it into your heads that th… tomcat and Truman Twill might be one and the same? For months everybody and his brother have been wanting to know is the tomcat back yet from his trip, is he huh, is he You haven't heard about Truman Twill being among th… missing have you?

This sounds to us as if someone might be pulling our leg. We did not say pulling our tail, please note Seriously, we doubt if it would be possible to get the writer of this column confused with a black tomcat. For one thing th… tomcat wouldn't be baldheaded Furthermore he is a first tenor, whereas ole marster is a second tenor T Manville also can walk on fence… and land on his feet if he falls.

This is what comes of teaching that crum… how to write He becomes a case of mistaken identity, an ambulant menace to the good name of Twill, which has come down through th… years unsullied This is to warn the public tha… the writer will not be responsible for any debt… or trouble incurred by a tomcat named T Manville, alias T. Twill. The only person entitled to use the latter name is its rightful owner Any confusion hereafter will be resented.

Swiss Block Grain Exports to Italy

By The Associated Press

BERN—The federal war food administration announced Switzerland could not trade bread grains for rice from Italy.

The food administration said "we have th… greatest difficulty to assure bread for our ow… country," but the administration would make every effort to get the rice in return for othe… articles.

Service To Continue At Greenwood Church

Evangelistic services at the Greenwood Evangelical United Brethren church will continue each night next week with Rev. Russell Boaz of Youngstown giving the sermons, Rev. R. L. Sutherland, pastor, announced. Services will be at 7:30. Rev. Boaz will preach at both morning and evening services at the church tomorrow.

Last night he took as his subject "Repentance," using as his text the thirtieth verse of the seventeenth chapter of Acts. He declared that "this text says and means that all men everywhere should repent. To preach on repentance was never popular. It was not the keenness of the knife that severed the head from John the Baptist's body; it was the keenness of his preaching that did it. Soft, consoling preaching that omits sin and repentance is popular. I cannot be consoled when sin is sitting in high places. In some circles it is popular to preach on the evil of dancing and card playing. But to preach on church indifference would not have a good hearing. The latter is the worst sin and needs to be repented of."

This is the fourth in a series of Lenten season sermonettes on the general theme, "In the Christ of the Cross We Glory."

Magnetism of the Cross

A Sermonette

By REV. GARRISON ROEBUCK

Pastor of First Evangelical United Brethren Church

Text: "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto Me." John 12:32.

SCRIPTURE gives us help in our interpretation of this passage from John. The inspired writer says in the verse following the text, "This he said, signifying by what death he should die." Jesus said on another occasion, "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up," John 3:14. Hence, according to the inspired word itself, Jesus refers to the power of the sacrificial death symbolized by the cross.

Sin is the most tragic fact in the world. It caused a barrier to come between man and his God. "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." Romans 5:12.

In view of this tragedy, God gave His only Begotten Son who came into the world, lived for a while among men, and then died upon a cross, and thereby made atonement for our sins. "Whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." John 3:16. The cross of Christ is the center of spiritual gravity, the moral rallying point of the world. It is the powerhouse of God's kingdom, through which the world receives the divine currents of spiritual dynamics.

What is there about the cross that attracts men to Christ?

First, there is the love of God which is revealed in the cross of Christ. In man's natural state he imagines God to be revengeful, unforgiving and desirous of meting out punishment. "The mind of the flesh is enmity against God." But God commendeth his love toward us in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Romans 5.8. The story is told of the boy who left his home and went out into the world to do for himself. Soon, however, he learned to know the hard realities of an unsympathizing world. His conscience began to smart. "If I were only back home with father and mother," he often said. But being fearful that his father and mother hated him and were bent on punishing him for his waywardness, he did nothing about returning home. But soon, however, his father and mother heard of his whereabouts and sent a railroad ticket with an urgent appeal, "Come home son, all is forgiven." Oh, how quickly this drew him homeward. The train traveled all too slowly for the son. Jesus said "If you lift me up I will draw all men unto me."

Secondly, there is the drawing power which comes as a result of it being a substitutionary sacrifice. "Surely he hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows . . . with his stripes we are healed . . . the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all." Isaiah 53. "I lay down my life for the sheep," John 10:15. The fact that Jesus became our surety should draw mightily upon the human heart. The poet expresses a great truth when he says, "Nothing in my hand I bring, simply to thy cross I cling." The story is told of the man who lived on the coast of Africa. This man became concerned about his soul and made his desires known to a group of men who had come to visit his country. "If you wish relief from your distress of soul," they said, "you should go to England and learn about the Christian's God, who paid the debt." The words had been thoughtlessly spoken, but the native seized upon them and soon made plans to go to England. He worked his way on a ship, and upon his arrival in England, strayed one night into a city mission where he heard for the first time "The story of the Cross." He was deeply touched and with tears in his eyes was heard to say "Me have found him! the Christian's God that paid the debt." Truly, Jesus through the cross draws men unto himself.

There is that within the human heart which responds to the appeal of the cross. The heart will respond if properly awakened and if it becomes conscious of its own needs. Down in the human heart is a secret unrest which at times becomes a tempest of conflicting emotions. "O, for peace and rest, if it could only be found." This is what many are saying today. "The wicked are like the troubled sea which cannot rest." The Christ of the Cross is the one that can give you rest. "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Feelings lie buried down deep in the human heart. These feelings are crushed by the tempter. The poet says however, that they can be touched by a loving heart, wakened by kindness and the chords that were broken will vibrate once more.

Jesus does not coerce, compel or drive people by force into his kingdom. "Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love; therefore with loving kindness have I drawn thee." Jer. 31:3 He draws by the gentle power of his love.

When we stretch out the hand of faith to him he lifts us out of our fallen condition into blessed fellowship with himself. In the heart is an intuitive longing for eternal life. The rich young ruler, though conscious of having kept the law, came to Jesus and said: "What must I do to inherit eternal life?" Jesus said, "I am come that they might have life and have it more abundantly." We are drawn to Christ because we want life, and we know only in Christ can we, who are condemned to death, find this life. The rich young ruler being a free moral agent, decided not to accept salvation on Jesus' terms so turned his back upon Jesus and walked away, for he had great possessions God grant that we may hear his call and follow after him.

"Must Jesus bear the cross alone,
And all the world go free?
No, there's a cross for everyone,
And there's a cross for me."

MISSIONARY HERE — Miss Dorothy L. Abel, above, missionary 20 years in the orient, will be in Marion tomorrow for services which are part of the worldwide and churchwide Sunday School revival campaign of the Pilgrim Holiness church. She will appear at Second Pilgrim church morning and evening. The Sunday School revival of the denomination opened last Sunday, to last through five Sundays. Miss Able has worked in the mission field in Japan, Korea and China, and since the war she has been engaged in work at the general headquarters of the Pilgrim Holiness church. She plans to leave for missionary duty in the Philippine islands in the fall. At one time she was in a school at Cincinnati when Rev. Albert Hood, pastor of Second Pilgrim church here, and Mrs. Hood were students there.

Four Churches Arrange Special Lenten Services

Lenten service themes for next week have been announced by four churches. First of these services, one of the Sunday evening series arranged by First Evangelical and Reformed church, will be centered on the subject "Pride and the Cross." The three other churches are holding their Lenten services on Wednesday evenings. Lenten vesper service of Emanuel Lutheran church that night will have as its central thought the Scripture passage, "If Thou Let This Man Go." A guest speaker at Salem Evangelical and Reformed church Wednesday night will be Rev. E. W. Guinther, pastor of Zion Evangelical and Reformed church at Prospect. The midweek Lenten service of Prospect Street Methodist church will consider the topic "The Roman Centurian."

P.H.C. MEETING

Two applications for membership were accepted at a meeting of Protected Home Circle No. 164 last night in the Democratic hall. Class initiation will be held at the next meeting to be followed by Inner Circle team practice and a spaghetti supper. Prizes were won by Mrs. Dortha Eaton and C. L. Smithson. A dance followed the meeting.

Article Today Tells Homebuilders Important Construction Facts

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

Practically all the important points of building construction today have been standardized, and there is very little excuse for the prospective homebuilder not being thoroughly familiar with correct methods of procedures.

There are two standard methods of sheathing or covering the framework of a house. One is with tongue and grooved wood boards. These must be applied over the frame diagonally as shown (A), and must be securely nailed into each member of the frame they cross. The other method is to use structural board, which comes in large sheets, and must be applied horizontally as shown (B) and securely nailed to every frame member. In both cases heavy waterproofed building paper (C) should be nailed to the sheathing before the exterior finish of clapboard, shingle or brick is applied. The paper should be lapped as shown so as to shed moisture. These procedures result in construction which is over four times as strong, according to the United States government; as when the sheathing is only nailed at the ends.

Brick veneer exterior (D) are very popular throughout the country, and they present excellent jobs when they are properly built. The most essential point is to have a sufficient number of anchors built into the brickwork. These anchors or ties are metal clips, which are nailed to the sheathing and built solidly into the wall. There should be one for every three square feet of wall surface. When they are omitted the wall may bulge or fall out. Another important point about veneered walls is that the joints should be full, and troweled off flush and even with the outer face of the brick. Loose or careless mortar joints present an invitation to moisture to get into and in back of the wall, and may result in excessive dampness in the house, if not severe damage to the interior finish.

The frame of a house (E) supports the entire structure. Both exterior and interior finish hang upon it, and it bears the weight of roof, floors, furniture and equipment. As we must have doors and windows it is necessary to cut many openings in the walls, and so weaken them. To compensate for this, all openings large or small, must be double-framed as shown. In other words the frame members immediately around the openings must be doubled up.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Enameling a Refrigerator

Q. The enamel is worn off parts of our electric refrigerator. Is it possible to make a presentable job by brushing on a coat of quick-drying enamel?

A. Wash the refrigerator with a strong solution of trisodium phosphate (grocery store, sold under trade name) about a cupful to a galoin of warm water. Rinse well and let dry. Dull the gloss by rubbing with very fine sandpaper, wipe with turpentine and then apply enamel undercoater. When dry, finish with enamel, using a good brush. But you would save yourself all this work by having your refrigerator service man spray a new finish.

• • •

Finish for Basement Walls

Q. Three years ago I gave my basement walls a coat of resin base, water emulsion paint. Now I want to give the walls a coat of a new type of finish intended for masonry walls. Could I apply this new coating over the old? Or must the old first be removed?

A. Every trace of the old coating must come off. The new finish to be effective must penetrate into the surface, which would be impossible if the old coating were still on the walls Scrub with a strong, hot solution of either trisodium phosphate (large paint store) or washing soda, using three pounds to the gallon of water. Use a fibre brush, and perhaps a wire-brush as well. Follow by thorough rinsing

• • •

Linoleum Dull from Washing

Q. The linoleum on my floor is dull looking because it has been washed so much Would you advise me to use the oil treatment on it? If not, should I varnish it with one of the new linoleum varnishes?

A. My preference would be to wax it with a good paste floor wax. Apply in very thin coats, each one hard and dry before applying the next. Polish with a polishing weight or a light electric floor polishing machine, if possible to get one A non-rubbing type of wax could be used instead. The oil treatment is intended for linoleum that is very much worn and brittle looking. Wash with mild soaps only.

• • •

Worn Brief-Case

Q. The lacquer finish on my cowhide brief-case is wearing off in places, leaving a rough, dirty surface How can I take off the old finish and refinish the case?

A. The ingredients used by the finishers of leather are not sold in retail stores, but the dealer from whom you bought the case may be able to have it refinished for you. For a home job, clean with saddle soap, then polish with a neutral shoe cream or shoe polish of the right color.

SCHOOL BOND ISSUE ASKED IN MT. GILEAD

$300,000 Sought To Build Grade School, Gym.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, March 15—Voters in the Mt. Gilead school district will be asked to approve a $300,000 bond issue for a new grade school building and gymnasium and for improvements in the present senior high school building at a special election to be held on May 6.

The Mt. Gilead board of education at a special meeting decided to submit the issue to the voters.

Copies of the bond resolution have been approved by the Ohio tax commission and also are in the hands of Morrow County Auditor Harold Taylor who will forward a copy to the election board.

The present grade school structure which was built in 1873 is overcrowded, school officials maintain. It was designed with eight classrooms seating 45 students each. At present there are 325 students in the grade school or an average of 54 students in each grade, and enrollment figures are expected to increase even more in the next five years

Total enrollment in the entire school is now 624 This compares to enrollment of 610 in 1939 and 586 in 1937.

Construction of the new building is not expected to start until building conditions are more favorable, according to D. L. Musselman, superintendent of schools. Musselman said the board was asking for approval of the issue now so that advantage could be taken of exceptionally low interest rates on bonds.

The proposed structure would be 121 feet by 152 feet and would be located north of the old high school building on Cherry street. The front entrance would be on Cherry street.

The building would contain on the ground floor, six grade class rooms, 24 feet by 22 feet, a large kindergarten, a cafeteria 43 feet by 82 feet, varsity, girls and a visiting team dressing rooms and toilets. On the second floor would be six more grade class rooms of the same size, a gymnasium with a playing floor 45 feet by 78 feet and having a permanent seating capacity of 1,300.

The gymnasium could hold approximately 1,500 persons at a basketball game. In addition, a large stage on one side would make the gymnasium suitable for graduation exercises or for other large community or school events.

Of the $300,000 a total of $280,000 would go for the new building and $20,000 would go for equipment. The bond issue is expected to be for about 3½ mills for 20 years. Sixty-five per cent of the voters must favor the issue for it to carry.

Present plans call for tearing down the present grade building and the old Senior High building, erected in 1906, after the new building has been built.

A Cardington bond issue of $180,000 for a new gymnasium will be up for approval at the same time.

Dashiell Hammett, detective fiction writer, was a Pinkerton detective for eight years.

By The Associated Press

DEADLOCK

Speculation on the surprise move believed to be planned by Molotov on German economic problems was based on the fact that he delayed the discussions yesterday with the explanation that he wanted to recheck figures on reparations. Marshall's summons to Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay also aroused speculation.

Although it is well known that Clay is fully occupied in Germany, where he assumed the duties of U. S. commander in chief only today, the urgency of the discussions in Moscow persuaded Marshall to request his presence here.

Soviet attacks on German administration made it necessary to have a United States representative at the council table who is fully acquainted with all the facts and who can quickly supply Marshall with the required answers.

Makes Presence Essential

This, coupled with the impending, all-important discussions on American economic policy in Germany, which are chiefly authored by the American commander, combined to make Clay's presence essential.

Authoritative sources said today the Chinese definitely had turned down Molotov's suggestion for a discussion of China and under these circumstances the United States would decline to participate in such discussions, since the U. S. position has been that China must be represented at any talks concerning her.

These sources said Marshall was willing to exchange information in writing only with the Russians about China and that this information would be confined to American troop withdrawals in China and American action under the commitments of the 1945 Moscow conference.

The informants said that under no circumstances would Marshall discuss or exchange information on China's internal affairs or China's policies

In the meantime, a clash between Marshall and Molotov seemed to be shaping up over the basic principles of United States' and Russian versions of "democracy."

Russian Press Renews Attack On Truman Plan

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 15—The Soviet press today renewed its attack on proposed United States aid to Greece and Turkey in a Pravda editorial which said that in President Truman's plan, "a policy of imperialist expansion is revealed under the guise of charity."

Delegates to the Big Four foreign ministers' conference here, at breakfast, read in the newspaper—organ of the Communist party's Moscow central committee—the declaration that the Truman policy did not serve the cause of peace and security.

Pravda said leaders of U. S policy—it unquestionably meant to include Secretary of State George C Marshall—had better contemplate that under current conditions efforts to accomplish plans for world domination were doomed to inevitable failure.

Izvestia opened the Russian editorial assault on the U. S. President yesterday, seeing in his address "new interference in the business of other states."

The Pravda editorial said the proposed U S policy was aimed at domination of Greece and Turkey and was in disregard of obligations under the United Nations charter

It declared President Truman "not only disregarded the obligations of the United States as a member of UN but pretended to a leading role in this organization"

"If Greece and Turkey are really threatened by anyone, why, then," it asked "does the United States not apply to the United Nations organization and put its case before the latter?"

The editorial pointed out that the UN security council even now had a commission in Greece investigating the border situation.

SOVIETS MAKE HEAVY USE OF WALLACE TALK

MOSCOW, March 15—The Soviet press and radio made heavy use today of Henry A. Wallace's radio speech censuring President Truman's program for U. S. aid to Greece and Turkey.

Before 9 a. m. the radio twice had read the former U. S. commerce secretary's remarks to listeners both in Moscow and throughout the Soviet Union.

Russian newspapers featured the speech prominently on the back or foreign page.

YOUR HEALTH

High Blood Pressure

The exact cause of high blood pressure in many persons still remains a mystery. It has been recognized, however, that many such patients also suffer from irritability, anxiety, fear and resentment. This has led many doctors to believe that if these emotional disturbances could be removed early enough, the high blood pressure might vanish with it.

As a matter of actual fact, according to Dr Robert W. Wilkins of Boston, reassurance, sympathy and encouragement on the part of the doctor play an important role in the treatment of such patients.

Many people with high blood pressure are unnecessarily fearful of a dire outcome because of their condition Naturally, it does them good when the physician explains that high blood pressure is usually what is known as a "benign" disease. That is, it does not progress rapidly to a disastrous climax, but runs a long course so that those affected can live long, useful and comfortable lives Of course, this presupposes that they get proper treatment and follow instructions.

Such assurance seldom lowers the blood pressure, but it does keep the patient calm and hence may prevent it from going higher. In any case it makes him feel better both mentally and physically.

The patient with high blood pressure must not be an invalid but should live as normal a life as possible. He should have prescribed amounts of exercise, rest and sleep and should use a well-balanced diet without overeating Moderate exercise in the open air is especially valuable, and attendance at entertainments and social functions, which get the patient's mind away from himself, is especially useful.

Dr Wilkins thinks that in regard to diet only two things are necessary, that the amount of food eaten be reduced, if necessary, to bring the patient's weight down to normal, and that the amounts of fat in the diet be limited in order to decrease the amount of what are known as lipoids in the blood It is thought that these lipoids may have some part in causing hardened arteries.

In so far as drugs are concerned, Dr. Wilkins has found none which is useful in lowering the blood pressure In certain patients, an operation known as sympathectomy may be found effective especially in those under fifty years of age who have not had the high blood pressure long enough to cause heart or kidney damage. Any other symptoms, such as headache or constipation, which arise in the patient with high blood pressure are treated in the usual way.

With proper treatment the patient with high blood pressure not only may be made more comfortable and contented, but he may live for about he usual span.

TAFT TO URGE CAREFUL STUDY OF APPOINTMENTS

Wants Turn-Down On Those Involving "Shenanigans."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 15 — Senator Taft (R-Ohio), told reporters today he will urge Republican senators to turn thumbs down on any postmaster appointments by President Truman which involve 'political shenanigans"

The G.O.P.-controlled senate has failed to confirm any of the 535 postmaster nominations for first, second and third class offices which have been made since the 80th congress met in January.

As chairman of the senate Republican policy committee, Taft called the members together today to decide what should be done about the nominations In advance of the meeting he said

"If the appointees have gone through the proper civil service tests and have qualified for the positions, I think we should confirm them even if they are Democrats.

"But if there have been any shenanigans—such as repeated tests held so that a favored prospect can finally squeak through—or if a Democrat who ran second to a Republican on the examination is nominated, then I think we ought to turn those down."

Tie Seen Between Other Diseases And High Blood Pressure

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 15—More knowledge about other diseases, such as diabetes and migraine headaches, might advance research on high blood pressure, it was suggested today by a medical scientist.

The suggestion was made by Dr. Eugene Ferriss of the University of Cincinnati, during an informal panel discussion by research workers attending a two-day session of the newly organized American Foundation for High Blood Pressure.

Dr. Ferriss was enumerating many of the possible research approaches in the clinical field related to high blood pressure, and declared "we should have more studies of the inter-relation of diseases."

He said diabetes was one example, because many patients whose diabetes had been brought under control with insulin were found to develop high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and related heart ailments at an earlier age than otherwise would be expected.

He also suggested that studies might show some relationship between migrane headaches and apoplexy in patients who were not suffering from high blood pressure.

"The mechanism of many strokes (of apoplexy) is similar to the mechanism of migrane attacks," he said, adding that a further understanding of this similarity might throw new light on the construction of blood vessels, which is associated with cardiovascular diseases.

Thirty medical research men from all parts of the country joined with business men yesterday and today to frame a program for promoting research in high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries They met under the auspices of the newly organized foundation.

Mystery Thrill Story At Ohio

"The Brasher Doubloon" Features George Montgomery and Philip Marlowe.

A thrilling mystery story is told in the picture, "The Brasher Doubloon," which is now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater. It stars George Montgomery as Philip Marlowe, a tough private detective and Nancy Guild as a neurotic person. It is adapted from a mystery novel by Raymond Chandler.

The story starts when Marlowe is called in by a widow to recover a rare and valuable coin stolen from the collection of her late husband. He agrees to take the case and then finds that the coin is a medium of exchange for blackmail information. Several murders are committed, he finds himself under suspicion by the police, and he falls in love with the widow's secretary although she appears to be a homicidal maniac.

Appearing in the supporting cast are Conrad Janis, Roy Roberts, Fritz Kortner, Florence Bates and Marvin Miller.

As an added feature, a March of Time, "Fashion Means Business," will be shown. It shows how Paris has kept its place as the fashion center of the world, and also depicts some of New York's great garment industries.

"Pursued," a story set in New Mexico at the turn of the century, stars Teresa Wright and Robert Mitchum, with Judith Anderson, Dean Jagger, Alan Hale and John Rodney heading the supporting cast. It will be shown for seven days starting Friday.

The picture tells the tale of Jeb Rand, an orphan, who grows up never accepting the affection of the woman who cared for him, and who always has a feeling of being pursued by an unknown avenger. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, he enlists. Upon his return, Jeb quarrels with his foster-brother, who then is killed by Jeb. Later he is involved in a number of gun battles and is always fearful for his life.

"The Beginning or the End," the story of the atom bomb, has in its starring roles, Brian Donlevy, Robert Walker, Tom Drake, Beverly Tyler and Audrey Totter. It will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Palace theater as the main attraction of a double feature.

Scheduled as the second picture of the program is "The Magnificent Rogue," starring Lynne Roberts and Warren Douglas.

Unfolded in the film, "The Beginning or the End," is the dramatic story of the development of atomic energy, beginning with the first splitting of uranium atoms in America. When America enters the war, President Roosevelt is informed by Professor Einstein of the military possibilities of atomic knowledge.

After Roosevelt's death, greater efforts are made on the project and General Leslie R. Groves, chief of the project, is ordered by President Truman to test the bomb. The big super-fort is then bound for Hiroshima to drop its precious cargo.

The story is told with Brian Donlevy portraying General Groves; Robert Walker as the Army's observer who is aboard the super-fort on its mission; Tom Drake as a young scientist who sacrifices his life to create the bomb; Beverly Tyler as Drake's young bride; and Audrey Totter as General Groves' confidential secretary and the only woman who knew the great secret. The late President Roosevelt, President Truman and Professor Einstein are portrayed by Godfrey Tearle, Art Baker and Ludwig Stossel.

"The Magnificent Rogue" tells of a war hero who returns to his advetrising agency, to find that in his absence his young wife has assumed the management of the business, and has not done very well.

Billed for showing Wednesday through Saturday are "Sinbad the Sailor" starring Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Maureen O'Hara and Walter Slezak, and "The Ghost Goes Wild" starring Anne Gwynne and James Ellison.

The story in the former is concerned with the search for a fabulous treasure. "The Ghost Goes Wild" is a picture of comedy and mystery and tells all about the adventures of a fake ghost.

EIGHT CHAMPIONS CROWNED IN GOLDEN GLOVES FINALS

Delaware Outfit Takes All Titles from Heavy To Light

Featherweight Strahm of Carey, Flyweight Knapp of Marion Also Come Through.

BY ART MYERS

Eight champions were crowned last night in finals of the Golden Gloves tournament at Marion armory before a capacity crowd of approximately 800. Officials said a number of would be spectators were turned away. Three took their titles without fighting last night, having eliminated opposition in their classes during previous nights' bouts. Five, however, won championships in fights last night.

Delaware boys took all titles from heavyweight through lightweight. Lawrence Strahm of Carey won the featherweight crown on the basis of his defeat of Dale Lama Wednesday night, there being no more featherweights up to the 16-year old age limit.

Only Marion champions were Harold Knapp, who decisioned Albert Treisch for the flyweight championship, and Harold Carpenter, who was given the championship last night by forfeit, following his defeat of Don Byles Wednesday night.

Champions will compete in the state A.A.U. bouts at Columbus March 24-25.

Watkins Takes Heavyweight

Ward Watkins of Delaware took the heavyweight crown on the basis of his defeat of Russell Bartlett of Ashley Monday night. His scheduled opponent for last night, stablemate Pat Patterson, did not show.

The light-heavyweight final was a clubby affair, with Russ Wilson and Earnest Penn, both of Delaware, putting on an "Oops-pardon me" exhibition for three rounds. Both held their punches but Wilson showed flashes of fight and was given a unanimous decision. Wilson holds a decision over Tom Vlachos of Marion, gained Monday night.

Charles Farina, 15, of Galion ran into another tough boy, but one 10 pounds heavier than himself, in James Wood, 160, of Delaware. Farina took a nine count in the first round from vicious body punching but survived the round. In the second he was caught in a corner and slugged down. He bounced right up but was out on his feet and Referee Dr. A. J. Wagner stopped the fight.

Draper Busy Boy

Jack Draper, Marion welterweight, was one of the busiest boys last night as he fought twice, winning his first fight against Bud Craig of Delaware, but losing the title go to Ward Moore of Delaware.

Draper looked good in the first fight as he decisioned the clever Craig, but in Moore he ran into a boy of skill approaching professional. Moore had the lightening jabs and hooks to pile up the points, and had the wallop to prevent Draper from opening up and coming in slugging.

In the final round he poled a long left to Draper's head and dumped the Marion boy, who appeared hurt although he did not take a count. Draper stayed with Moore but it was the Delaware boy's fight all the way.

One of the best bouts of the night, both from the standpoint of a boxing exhibition and an old-fashioned slug-fest, was the lightweight championship match between Briss Craig of Delaware and Joe Neidig of West Mansfield. Both were in excellent shape and had about the same style.

The fight opened up as it went along and the last round was a Pier 6 brawl. The decision was split. Its announcement was delayed when one of the judges handed in a verdict for a draw. Informed draws were not legal in amateur fighting, he cast the deciding vote for the Delaware boy.

Harold Carpenter of Marion, who was named bantamweight champ, boxed an exhibition with George Earhart of Marion. Earhart previously registered as 17, turned out to be only 15, and not eligible for an A. A. U. bout. No damage was done on either side in the match.

Harold Knapp of Marion decisioned Al Treisch for the flyweight championship after the latter had decisioned Earl Foster of Marion earlier in the evening. It was a close fight but the decision of the judges was unanimous.

In the paperweight division Bob Hunt decisioned Robert Sherman in a hard-fought bout. Sherman was aggressive, but was unable to match Hunt's punching power.

Paperweight Gene Coulson rushed Kenny Smith around the ropes and into the corners through most of their fight to take a unanimous decision. Smith had earlier in the night decisioned Al Best.

Jack Davis, 80, proved too much for Jack Barager, 80, and Referee Jimmy Williams stopped the fight in the second round.

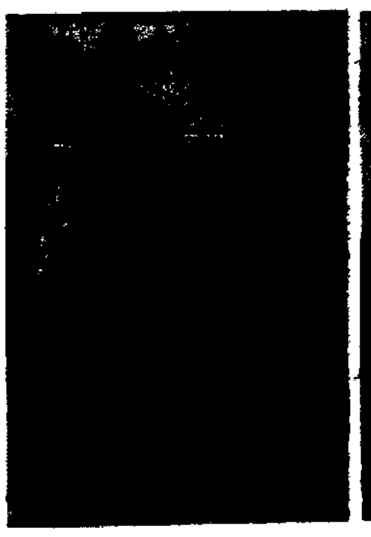
Red Grange and Tommy Hitchcock Lent Luster To Sports Golden Age of the Roaring Twenties

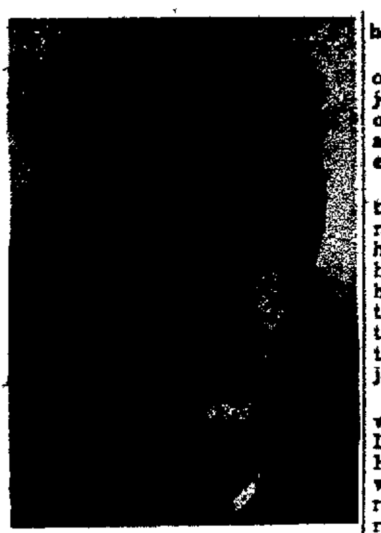
By FRANK ECK
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK—Baseball had its Babe Ruth, boxing its Jack Dempsey, golf its Bobby Jones and tennis its Bill Tilden during the first Golden Era of sports following World War I. Other sports, too, had their standout athletes of the last postwar period — Tommy Hitchcock in polo, Red Grange in football, Earl Sande in racing and Johnny Weissmuller in swimming.

Last of a Series



TOMMY HITCHCOCK
Polo's All Time Great



HAROLD (RED) GRANGE
The Iceman Galloped

While experts predict a new golden age in sports most of them doubt a repetition of the galaxy of stars that dominated the sports scene of the roaring twenties.

Hitchcock's feats on a polo pony have never been equalled. He began playing polo at 13 and at 22 had a 10-goal rating. He was ranked at 10 goals—highest honor in polo—more than any other player and in 1934 he received the rating for the 13th year in succession.

As late as 1940 he was ranked at 10 goals. Even at 40 he still hit a polo ball farther than anyone.

Noted for Daring

Hitchcock was noted for his color and daring. He suffered two concussions in falls playing the game he loved.

At 17 he enlisted in World War I and served in the air services. He was shot down over Germany and subsequently escaped from a German prison.

Known as "the Babe Ruth of Polo," Hitchcock lost his life in the last war. He was a lieutenant colonel and chief of the tactical research section of the U. S. Ninth Air Force fighter command. He was killed in a plane crash over England in line of duty though not engaged in combat while piloting a Mustang P51.

Grange—The Galloping Ghost

Harold (Red) Grange, the Galloping Ghost of the gridiron, gained his fame at the University of Illinois. Wearing No. 77, Grange was All-American quarterback for three years, 1923 through 1925.

Twelve days after finishing his football career at Illinois, Grange signed with the Chicago Bears of the National Football league and made $100,000 from guarantees and gate receipts for his first three weeks. In his first two weeks with the Bears he played eight games.

In one of them in New York he pocketed $36,000. The same day he signed a $376,000 movie contract and a $40,000 contract with a business firm.

Got $50,000 for One Game

He received $50,000 for a Los Angeles game that drew 80,000 fans.

During his short but profitable play-for-pay career he was in partners with Charles Pyle. The latter handled financial arrangements. When the pair split in 1928 it was reported they earned two million dollars.

Know nas "the Iceman" because he worked on an ice wagon at Wheaton, Ill, his home town, during the summer, Grange was born at Forksville, Pa., June 13, 1903.

Grange carried the pigskin 237 to the Triple Crown—Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont. times, averaging 8.1 yards per carry. He scored 531 touchdowns, a record that may never be threatened.

Sande Won Three Derbies

Sande, born Nov. 13, 1898, at Groton, S. D., rode his first winner in 1918.

He had several great years in the saddle. One of his best was 1923 when he rode Zev to victory in the Kentucky Derby at odds of 19 to 1. Later that year the brown colt beat Papyrus, the English horse, in an international match race at Belmont Park.

When the season ended Sande had ridden 122 winners and earned $569,394 in purses for his employers.

Rode for Widener

Much of his early riding was in the colors of Harry F. Sinclair's Rancocas Stable. He later rode for Joseph P. Widener, and William Ziegler once paid $17,000 for second call on his services.

However, Sande reached his greatest fame in 1930 during the waning years of his career when he piloted Belair Stud's Gallant Fox

The bay colt earned a record of $308,275 with Sande as regular jockey. The mark for a 3-year-old stood until 1946 when Assault, aided by inflationary purses, earned $424,195 in one year.

Sande rode in the Derby eight times. He scored with G. A. Cochran's Flying Ebony in 1925. When he won with Gallant Fox in '30 he became the second jockey in history to win the Derby three times. Negro Isaac Murphy rode three winners before the turn of the century and Eddie Arcaro joined the select circle in 1945.

Sande quit riding after 1932 when he finished fifth in the Derby. As a rider he was smart. He used his head more than the whip and was regarded by fellow reinsmen as one of the cleanest riders the sport ever knew. He rode 969 winners

After retiring from the saddle Sande met with fair success as a trainer: In 1938 he saddled winners of $226,495.

Splashed Way to Fame

Of all the men who gained swimming titles or set world's records, none compare with Weissmuller, the Tarzan of the movies. The Illinois A. C. swimmer began creating records in 1922 when he was 17.

He beat Tom Blake, a Los Angeles swimmer, at 50 yards, Weissmuller swimming backstroke the entire trip while Blake went freestyle.

Held 20 Swim Marks

At the end of 1922 there were 38 men's swimming records in the books. Twenty of these belonged to Weissmuller.

The following year Weissmuller lowered the 100-yard free-style mark to 51 1. In 1927 he clipped another tenth of a second off the record and it stood for 20 years.

Weissmuller could swim any distance. He won the Chicago River marathon, covering three miles, in 1927 and shattered the former record for the distance by nearly two minutes. His time was 54 minutes, 29 seconds.

Reds' Vander Meer Feels Fit As Tribe's Seerey Fans

Stubby Indian Likely To Be AL Strikeout King Again in '47.

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 15—Despite batting lessons in the class of Professor Rogers Hornsby, stubby Pat Seerey of the Cleveland Indians loomed today as a repeat candidate for the lowly distinction of leading the American league in strikeouts.

The Tribe had two strikeout champions last year, Blazin' Bob Feller on the mound and Seerey in the batter's box—but President Bill Veeck hired Hornsby several months ago to enable Seerey to avoid winning the fanning honor two years in a row.

Seerey previously expressed the opinion that his change in batting stance would improve his clubbing eye, but the Irish outfielder with the punch and the paunch whiffed three times in four trips yesterday as the Tribe was held to five hits during a 4-2 exhibition loss to the New York Giants.

The Giants clubbed 12 hits off southpaws Les Willis and Bob Kuzava yesterday as Rookie Les Gearhart provided the victory margin with a two-run homer off Willis in the opening frame. Singles by Seerey, Dale Mitchell and a walk produced the first Tribe run in the top half of the inning, and the Indians tallied again in the fourth on one-basers by Joe Gordon and Ken Keltner.

Knuckler Roger Wolfe, aiming for the No. 2 spot on the Tribe mound corps, and Charley (Red) Embree, right-handed fireballer, were slated for hurling duty today in an exhibition tilt against the Chicago Cubs at Los Angeles.

No-Hit Hurler Says He'll Win 20 Games This Season.

By The Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15—Johnny Vander Meer, never a fellow to sound off about his pitching ability, believes the upcoming season will be his best yet for the Cincinnati Reds.

"My arm feels great and I expect to win 20 (games) for the first time," said the stocky southpaw who turned in two consecutive no-hit no-run games back in 1938.

He reported his arm was loose and he had no trouble with his control yesterday as he pitched three shutout innings to start the Reds off to a 7-4 12-inning victory over the Philadelphia Phils at Clearwater.

Vander Meer won 10, lost 12 last season when a "kink" in his arm slowed him up in the spring. His best year was 1942 when he compiled an 18-12 record.

Home runs in the 12th by Red Durrett and Kermit Wahl, rookie outfielder and shortstop, respectively, gave the Reds their marathon victory over the Phils. Ray Lamanno was aboard when Durrett hit for the circuit.

Close-ups of several operations have been projected onto a television screen at the clinic during the last few days and persons in a lecture room in an adjoining building witnessed minute details of the surgery, Dr. Lower reported. A formal demonstration is planned for next Sunday.

SLIGHT RECOVERY NOTED IN MARKET

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 15—Prices recovered mildly in parts of today's stock market with a little buying and short covering based on the idea the list may have been oversold. Many leaders, however, continued to inhabit lower territory.

Dealings were relatively slow from the start. While declines running to 2 points or so were widespread near the close, modest plus signs persisted. Numerous pivotals were unchanged. Transfers were in the neighborhood of 400,000 shares against 740,000 last Saturday.

Occasional gainers included Great Northern Railway, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester and Anaconda.

On the downside most of the time were Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Woolworth, American Telephone, American Can, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville, Southern Railway and Norfolk and Western.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

MANY times during my life with Dicky, I have noted his speed in speech and movement when dealing with an emergency. But never have I seen him in swifter action than when I opened the door of my study and saw the former Princess Olina of Transvania, daughter of Olga Veritzen, standing just outside it.

He must have murmured a mandate to Mary to close her eyes, for I heard no sound of voices. In an other instant he was at my side at the door, and his finger was at his lips.

A Sick Girl

"Do your talking in the corridor," he whispered. "Mary just has dozed off. And, Madge, you'd better make it snappy. I'm afraid Mary is a pretty sick girl. Tell Olina about her temperature and her pulse, and what you're planning to do for her."

He didn't exactly "shoo" me into the corridor, but his gesture effectively sent me through the door, which he closed after me, whispering: "I'll slip the lock," as he turned the knob.

Olina looked at me with her great lustrous eyes—so like her mother's—widened in alarm. I remembered a comment I once had read, to the effect that the eyes of Queen Olga, of Transvania, were the toast of every court in Europe. But I had no time to dwell upon it, for Olga's daughter was putting an insistent question.

"Is Mary seriously ill?" she asked anxiously. "Maman didn't tell me that. She said that Mary appeared to be in bad shape nervously, and that you feared a breakdown. But she didn't say a word about her feeling physically ill."

Puts on a Front

"I don't think she noticed it," I said. "Mary was talking rapidly—you know she always 'puts on a front' as she says, no matter how she feels."

"Yes, I know," Olina said, ungrudging admiration in her eyes, and I was glad to see no vestige of the jealousy which she had felt toward Mary two years ago because of her royal suitor, Georges, the young exiled king of Trees, who once had been betrothed to Mary and apparently had had vivid memories of his former romance.

But before he had left for his secret, dangerous mission to his war-torn native Trees, he and Olina had come to a complete understanding, and, ever since then, hers had been the lot of thousands of other girls with fiances overseas, waiting, watching, solacing themselves with the brief messages which were all war conditions permitted.

No Word

There had been no word of the royal knight errant, however, for several months. Somewhere in the Balkans, "the powder keg of Europe," Georges was either pursuing his dangerous mission, languishing in some prison, or forever at rest.

And Olina was comporting herself as became a royal princess, with centuries-old traditions of self-discipline. Proud, calm, diligent, she worked at her music, and at, I suspected, a more difficult role, that of being the daughter of Olga, exiled queen of Transvania, and Philip Veritzen, famous impresario.

But I had no time for even the briefest of "flashback" into Olina's emotional life film. She was waiting, I knew, to learn Mary's condition, and, what was more important, to deliver the message from her mother about Philip's actions and intentions which Olga had told me she would send to me.

May Be Nerves

"Frankly, I am puzzled about Mary's condition," I told her. "She has over a degree of temperature, and her pulse is too rapid. Yet her respiration is all right. It may all be nerves.

"But," I went on, "in view of Mary's medical history this last year, I cannot take any chances."

"Oh, no!" Olina breathed.

"Therefore," I concluded, "I'm not taking her down to her apartment, to wait for Noel. "I'm getting her down at once to our own living apartment, shutting off one of the bedrooms and a bathroom for her exclusive use, and sending for a physician. She objected strenuously to that at first—she is rabid on the subject of physicians, especially the ones at the sanitarium—but she has finally consented to see Dr. Twitchell, and I am sending for him immediately."
